

For Those With Our Lord In Mind.

Invoke God. Our Lord would have us be happy, not sad. He asks us to ask Him into our heart. He will guide us.

Primary Values and Prayer. When we choose the primary values, we choose the Lord. When we choose the Lord, we pray. Prayer is essential in overcoming adversity.

Pray For So-Called Adversary. We need to pray for our so-called adversary. In so doing, we ask God to forgive our adversary for hurting us. We learn the part that is from our adversary and the part that is from us.

Change. We can use the primary values to change the part that is from us. We can use prayer to change the part that is beyond us.

Make a Place for Pain in Our Heart. If we choose our adversary, we submit to him. We call this making a place for pain in our heart.

Accept the Worst. Determine the worst outcome possible. Ask God to help you accept even that outcome if it is His will.

Suffering and Joy. We will know we have suffered enough, when we suffer no longer. Then we will experience joy. Joy is different from happiness. In joy we still are afflicted. In happiness our affliction ends.

Peace. If we are innocent we will suffer no more. God will hold us up.

Change Through Our Cross. If we are innocent, God will bring His will to bear. His will is mighty. His will can change any situation. He will not abandon us. It is through our suffering that He has vowed to change the world. Our cross is holy.

2. Attaining a goal or other end not necessarily preconceived as a goal but which becomes a goal once experienced.
3. Operating in an area of meaningful expansion to yourself.

The Rule

If one or more of the values is present and the experience does not go against any of the other values, you will feel good. If the experience goes against one or more of the values, you will feel bad, even if other values are present.

Adversity
card

Loquate is a center for peace. If you want inner peace when you face adversity, follow the procedure outlined on this card.

When you face adversity, you will feel bad. When you feel bad, you can determine the part that is coming from you and the part that is coming from others.

This is most important because the part that is coming from you can be changed. The part that is coming from others can only be changed through God.

The center of this folding card explains how to invoke God. The reverse side of this card explains how to change yourself.
