

Basic Human Rights

R080-ah-2 hours

Satisfy innate needs. Uphold Basic Human Rights. Basic Human Rights may be measured with an INDEX. A low INDEX may indicate a lack of Basic Human Rights.

And with a high INDEX the greatest happiness or joy occurs in communities that Uphold Basic Human Rights “in unity for all!”

Innate Needs as defined by Deci and Ryan	Basic Human Rights	Explanation – Symptom of Violation
1. Relatedness	1. The right to do that which is truly in the best interests of others.	1. Feeling that I am part of something that injures or harms others.
2. Competence	2. The right to attain goals or other ends not necessarily preconceived as goals, but which become goals once experienced.	2. Feeling unable to finish something I have started or want to do because others prevent me, or interfere, or take over.
3. Autonomy	3. The right to operate in an area of meaningful expansion for yourself.	3. Feeling bored about my work. Feeling I am wasting my time. When I die, I don't want to say “That which I should have done, I did not do.”
	4. The right to act non-cooperatively, non-violently according to my personal-moral or religious beliefs.	4. Feeling like my personal-moral or religious beliefs are not accepted. Feeling like I am kept from living my personal – moral or religious beliefs.

Innate Needs

Everyone has innate needs. Cited by hundreds of thousands of Academic Research articles since 1981, the innate needs of humankind may be the greatest discovery in natural law ever. Richard M. Ryan, and Edward L. Deci state:

“The findings have led to the postulate of three innate psychological needs—competence, autonomy, and relatedness—which when satisfied yield enhanced self-motivation and mental health and when thwarted lead to diminished motivation and wellbeing.”

Loquate, a not for profit, found that these habits satisfy innate needs:

Relatedness- Doing that which is truly in the best interests of others.

Competence- Attaining goals or other ends not necessarily preconceived as goals but which become goals once experienced.

Autonomy-Operating in an area of meaningful expansion for yourself, that is your interiorly preferred work.

Conclusion:

Innate habits do not become innate until they become habits. It is a natural law that all human beings are born with feelings. Like a computer’s operating system, feelings tell us if we are on target as a human being. Innate habits put us on target habitually. A Smart® group does this. A Smart® Ambassador of Community has increased motivation and well being defined as happiness, joy and peace, and increased sense of community in every group of which he is a part.

The natural law rule of the innate habits is this.

“If one or more of the innate habits is present in an experience and the experience does not go against any of the other innate habits, you will feel good. If the experience goes against one or more of the innate habits, you will feel bad, even if other innate habits are present.”

Richard M. Ryan in a note to Jeff Liautaud, Founder of Loquate said this:

Remarkable Convergence.

Hi again Jeff

Happy to say this: “Reading the text you sent, I see that we share some very basic values and missions Jeff, and I loved the autonomy, competence, and relatedness themes you expressed. I see remarkable convergence with our work... I truly hope your mission to promote communities in which one most values the common good really takes off.”

All the best
Richard

Feedback from the Loquate INDEX

The INDEX is derived from feedback scores. Smart® group feedback scores verify the degree to which satisfying innate needs becomes the norm for the environment. An environment is a group, organization, or local community.

Basic Human Rights may be measured with the INDEX. A low INDEX may indicate a lack of Basic Human Rights.

Paid Participation

Bold Corporations lead the way by incentivizing participation open to all. Members of Smart® groups are incentivized by Sponsor payments such as $450 to become Smart® Ambassadors of Community, who may direct grants such as $150 /year to qualified organizations of the Corporation’s choice.

There are 3 Degrees of mentored certification as a Smart® Ambassador of Community: Beginner – 27 hours, Intermediate – 54 hours, and Advanced – 81 hours. All degrees voluntarily done on private time, not at work, and are free thanks to our Sponsors.

Donation to Non-profit Loquate per year
Bread and Butter - Free will donation
Bronze - $2500 basic membership
Silver – $5,000 intermediate membership
Gold – $10,000 advanced membership
Platinum – $20,000 sustaining membership

The greater the corporate community, the higher the quality coming from its brand.

An assembly open to all in the environment is the start. The peaceful purpose of the assembly is gaining experience at helping each other to accomplish that which they value the most for the common good. The assembly is a norm for change to increase Basic Human Rights, and annual Smart® group recruitment.

A few Smart® Ambassadors can affect many. By changing only themselves like a trade school, Smart® Ambassadors work and live in a protective bubble of Spirit-centered community making their workplace a best place to work and their community a best place to live. The Loquate INDEX certifies environments and their direction toward community as consistent with Natural Law upholding Basic Human Rights in “unity for all.”
