

Smart® Scores Community Survey
measures sense of community.

R099-ac

Loquate is a charitable center for peace that uses technology for intentional community building. The science includes education and implementation. Certification insures education and the Loquate small group program insures implementation.

Loquate defines sense of community as an environment characterized by togetherness and sharing as opposed to cool detachment. The leaders in the environment know the members and go out of their way to be helpful. Though the members are quite diverse, personal diversity is celebrated for its contribution. There is a sense of group loyalty and group support. The atmosphere is cohesive. The environment is a community.

The Smart® Scores Community Survey measures sense of community. Dr. C. Robert Pace and his colleagues at UCLA developed the Smart® Scores Community Survey for use by Loquate.

On the sense of community scale where are you?

Date, Organization, Your Name

Here are some statements that may or may not apply to your organization. There is no right or wrong response to any statement. The purpose of this brief survey is simply to see how much agreement there may be about each statement. Is it a fair statement? Does it reflect your knowledge and experience in the organization? Is it generally true or characteristic? There are five degrees of agreement or disagreement that you can give to each of the statements as follows:

SA = strongly agree

A = Agree

? = no opinion

D = disagree

SD = strongly disagree

To the left of each statement circle the reply that best reflects your response to the statement. B010-d-2020-0922
