

The Middle Ground of Despair

R110-ah-7 hours

When one in authority over us, uses tactics that thwart our innate needs, it feels like this: “I cannot sleep. I have an upset stomach. It feels like someone just ripped the guts out of my life’s work.” It is the most intense of all human feelings. When we feel desperately helpless because of institutionalized outcomes from a government, work, or family environment, there is a way out. Read this article to see how to get out of this state alive.

Cited by hundreds of thousands of Academic Research articles since 1981, Edward L. Deci and Richard M. Ryan state:

“The findings have led to the postulate of three innate psychological needs—competence, autonomy, and relatedness—which when satisfied yield enhanced self-motivation and mental health and when thwarted lead to diminished motivation and well-being.”

“Hi again Jeff... I see remarkable convergence with our work,” said Richard M. Ryan on 10/17/19 to Jeff Liautaud, founder of Loquate. Loquate is a charitable center for peace on earth for over 50 years, whose core competence is delivering and restoring community even when we feel desperately helpless because of institutionalized outcomes.

Smart® groups apply Academic Research in what may be the greatest discovery in Natural Law ever. When our innate needs are thwarted, the middle grounds are like sacred burial grounds. It is that place on earth between life and death. There is a path toward interior restoration of peace that leads to exterior community for any who is in the middle ground:

1. Speak the truth always.
2. Be kind.
3. Our suffering will draw another to our righteousness within.
4. This will take time.
5. I may exit the middle ground of despair with hope as a Smart® ambassador of community.

This exit may have been a universal state experienced by a rare few, now open to all mankind. Experiential learning from Smart® group mentors leads to Smart® ambassadors of community.

Smart® habits satisfy innate needs. Innate needs when satisfied lead to increased motivation and well being.

Loquate is a ripple organization that touches others in ripples of intentional community building. Loquate relies on over 50 years’ experience creating safe sharing environments. Its Smart® protocol is helping another accomplish that which they value the most for the common good.

Non-cooperation, non-violence

In non-cooperation, non-violence you will experience a peaceful solution to accelerate the process of awareness and change. You will know you have suffered enough, when you suffer no more. Others have done this. They can help you. You will experience Miracles, First Hand. You will grow into holy nothingness. God does the healing until all are in unity.
