Why We Do It

“Our charity cares. We want to help all humanity turn their hobby of happiness into The Natural Law Science of Happiness.
*Jeff Liautaud, Founder

Founder's Track Record of Legal Innovation

- Defending the Sacred Jeff did legal research which he shared with The Archdiocese of Oklahoma City to prevent a publicized Black Mass on city property on the basis of a legal argument. The Catholic Archdiocese of Oklahoma City won a law suit proving theft and required return of a stolen host from those intending to run a public “Black Mass” at a venue at the Civic Opera Center in Oklahoma City on 9/21/14. Any public venue that permits a black mass turns a blind eye to theft which in itself is against public policy. It is a contradiction to both say the mass is black and to say the black mass does not use a stolen host.
- Commercial Experience Jeff has directed the spending of more than $8,000,000 in today's dollars on professional legal mastermind research to be used by others. He shared an office with Harvard Attorneys on his first job in investment banking doing investment research and background checks on Wall Street holding a degree in Mathematics and an MBA in Finance. He found a means to shift risk from one generation to the next using legal tax opinion based on a case precedence that Jeff found including from attorney Blanchard who said he felt like working with Jeff was like working with another attorney.

- Early Advocacy Jeff represented students before the Welfare Board of Quincy University doing undergraduate work. He was surprised that almost all of the students requested him as their representative on the Welfare Board.
- Inventor's Mindset With several patents to his credit, which he prosecuted himself, Jeff has an incisive technical and legal mind.
